Catholic Rector Victim Of $150,000 Stock Deal

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—A mass of cancelled checks and notes, stocks and other documents was brought to light here today as the outward evidence of how several men obtained $150,000 in personal and church funds from Monsignor O'Brien, who is 83 years old, in a state of nervous exhaustion, augmented by a partial paralysis, and his ability to appear as the chief prosecuting witness is regarded as problematical.

Whether there will be prosecution of the men is yet to be determined. Monsignor O'Brien, who is 83 years old, is in a state of nervous exhaustion, augmented by a partial paralysis, and his ability to appear as the chief prosecuting witness is regarded as problematical.

When Monsignor O'Brien became convinced late last year that most of the investments he had made were bad, he decided to the church parish a tract of land he owned in West Virginia, and which was valued in the deed at $76,000, the amount of the church funds which he apparently had lost in the investments. Holders of $1,000 of the notes signed by the priest have brought suit in Jefferson county, West Virginia, in an effort to prevent consummation of the transfer of land and to collect on the notes.

A. J. Abbatichio, counsel for Monsignor O'Brien, explained today that it was one of the duties of the rector of a Catholic Church to invest the church funds and that consequently the monsignor had acted within his rights.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF., June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—The airplane carrying Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant J. B. Richter, army aviators, in their attempt to remain in the air for four days and four nights, crashed into the mud flats between Coronado and North Island at about 4:40 a. m. today.

It was reported by telephone from Rockwell Field that neither of the aviators had been seriously injured.

According to officers, the officers were trying to make a safe landing in a dense fog having made further progress impossible.

The two airmen had cruised throughout a moonlit night. They remained in the air almost 24 hours. They took off yesterday morning at 4:40:43.

It was their second unsuccessful attempt within two days to remain in the air long enough to break all endurance records.

Wednesday they made their first start, but the burning out of a generator forced them down in less than six hours.

The aviators announced yesterday that if they failed in the second attempt they would keep trying until they succeeded. Both attempts demonstrated that planes may be refueled in flight. Several times, Wednesday and yesterday Lieutenants Virgil Himes and Frank Seifert, in the refueling plane, travelled above and alongside of the record-seeking fliers long enough for a hanging hose to be inserted in the tank and quantities of gasoline transferred.

Several speed records are believed to have been shattered. They maintained an average of approximately 86 miles an hour.

Break Record

SAN DIEGO, CALIF., June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—As the flight of the "Devil" airplane, piloted by Captain Lowell H. Smith and Lieutenant John B. Richter, army aviators, in their attempt to win the air endurance record, kept passing over the city in its course early today, attention of watchers was centered on the chances of the airmen in passing the duration record of 36 hours, 4 minutes and 31 seconds, held by Lieutenants Kelly and Macready, famous trans-continental pilots.

The first record fell to Captain Smith and Lieutenant Richter when they passed the 2,500 kilometer mark.

In reaching that they beat by a comfortable margin the record held by Lieutenants Kelly and Macready, which was 71 3/4 miles an hour.

The refueling is carrying on systematically and the contacts in mid-air have been made with almost the regularity of clock-work. Yesterday more than 300 gallons of gasoline, 15 gallons of lubricating oil, 5 gallons of water and several packages of food were taken aboard from the fueling ship manned by Lieutenant Virgil Himes and Lieutenant Frank Seifert.

These airmen, on whom the success of the flight depends hardly less than on Smith and Richter's airman's endurance, went aloft eight times to refuel and all told made 11 contacts in mid-air.

Reactors In Busy Session

CLEVELAND, O., June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—A discussion on "building a real estate business" occupied the general morning business session, while seven divisional meetings were on the afternoon program of the 26th annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards today.

J. C. Nichols, of Kansas City, Mo., addressing the delegates at the morning session declared that an endeavor should be made to create a certain character and distinction in procuring lands for home building and subdivisions regardless of the class of subdivision offered for sale.

Other speakers included Ivan Ackerly, of Chicago; Guy Ellis, Detroit; W. Ross Campbell, Los Angeles; and George B. Realy, Toledo, Ohio.

COBLENZ, June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—The French today extended their occupation in the Mayence bridgehead to Langen, on the Darmstadt-Frankfurt railroad line, eight miles south of Frankfurt, and Eschborn on the Frankfurt-Kronberg line, seven and a half miles northwest of Frankfurt. The extension is a penalty for recent sabotage on the railroads.

Laborers Out On Strike

CHICAGO, June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Martin Egan, through whose strike called in the ranks of unskilled laborers, crisscrossed and plasterers, laborers, millwrights and others, have been on strike since last night, have been extended to fifteen thousand men and additional work halted. Egan says he is organizing the United Building Laborers' Revocant Association and denies he is an I. W. O. leader or opposed to the American Federation of Labor, although petition for a charter has been denied by the A. F. of L. because the hood carriers and building laborers executive council is opposing him.

Building contractors have served an ultimatum that laborers who have quit must return to work Monday or face a lockout. They have refused to deal with Egan or his lieutenants on any terms, contending that he is not recognized by the established builders' union or organized labor.

Controversy Over Enforcement Plank In Dry Meeting

WESTERVILLE, O., June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Decision as to the attitude the Anti-Saloon League of America shall take in regard to prohibition platform declarations by the two major political parties in the 1924 campaign was one of a number of subjects under discussion by the executive committee of the organization here today.

State superintendents of the league from 44 states, at the concluding session of a three day conference yesterday debated the question, but left decision to the executive committee.

Possibility of a fight on the subject was apparent today as the committee went into session. Two factions are said to have developed, one led by Dr. P. A. Baker and Wayne B. Wheeler, who believes in as much as the wets have forced the issue of enforcement, political control.

Woman Says She Gave Whitfield Shovel

CLEVELAND, O., June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—John L. Whitfield, arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Bernon this morning charged with the first degree murder of Policeman Dennis Griffin while in custody of the officer May 11, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for July 23, the earliest date possible under the Ohio statutes.

Common Pleas Judge Frank C. Phillips will preside at the trial because he will be the trial judge sitting in criminal court on July 23. The court room was even more crowded this morning than it was yesterday, when Whitfield was first brought into court for arraignment, but there was no disturbance of any kind.

CLEVELAND, O., June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—After being postponed yesterday at the request of County Prosecutor Stanton, formal arraignment of John L. Whitfield, alleged slayer of Dennis Griffin, a Cleveland patrolman, was set for today. Stanton asked for the postponement after having had his arraignment on a first degree murder charge delayed twice in order to question the prisoner.

The chain of circumstantial evidence which has been woven about Whitfield was strengthened last night when Mrs. Agnes Briel, her daughter and a daughter-in-law identified Whitfield as the man who borrowed a shovel on May 11, the day Griffin disappeared.

Whitfield admitted that he was the man who borrowed the shovel, but denied burying the body of Patrolman Griffin.

This confession, so far as it goes, was made to Prosecutor Stanton after hours of questioning of Whitfield.

Whitfield lost his composure entirely during the grilling at the hands of the prosecutor, and broke down and wept, according to Stanton. Whitfield had not slept a wink up to midnight, the attendants say, although he retired early in the evening. He was unable to lie still. He left his cot frequently and paced his cell. When he finally got to sleep he rested but little.

Mrs. Briel and her daughter and daughter-in-law, who were at her home when Whitfield borrowed the shovel, went to the jail at the request of Stanton. Whitfield was lined up with about a dozen other negroes and without any hesitation Mrs. Briel said: "That's the man that borrowed the shovel," pointing to Whitfield.

At first the prisoner denied that he remembered Mrs. Briel, but later he declared he did remember her.

Stanton at first declined to make public the statements made by Whitfield, declaring that unless some facts were refuted it would be damaging to the state's case.

In his statement Whitfield said a truck was following the roadster in which the policeman accompanied him to a precinct station house after Griffin had arrested him on a charge of larceny. After the officer accidentally shot himself, he said, he stopped the driver of the truck and turned the body over to him, arranging for his burial.

Mrs. Briel said that the truck which passed her house shortly after Whitfield borrowed the shovel had possibly been driven by any of Whitfield's friends.

The authorities believe that Whitfield solved this incident in an effort to strengthen his story that he turned the body over to another man for burial. Among the counsel employed by Mrs. Whitfield is former state Senator Arthur H. Day, who will be her husband's chief counsel. He said this morning he had not determined what the prisoner's defense would be.

Seizure Of Liquor And Probably Ships To Continue

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Great Britain's flat rejection of the American proposal for a prohibition 12-mile limit has left administration officials no alternative, it was said authoritatively today, but to await the will of congress as to revision of the law and meantime to refuse admittance to ship liquor stores under penalty of seizure.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Questions arising from the practice of foreign steamships, bound for American territorial waters, carrying beverage liquor for passengers as cargo, were confined within narrower limits today as a result of developments in London and in Washington. At the same time any immediate solution of the problem satisfactory alike to the United States and to foreign powers was not apparent.

One of the possible solutions was discarded yesterday by Marquis Curzon, British secretary for foreign affairs, speaking in the house of lords, when he declared that there was no chance of Great Britain agreeing to the treaty proposal of the United States for a reciprocal right of search of vessels twelve miles off shore and although the statement was withheld here, his statement was interpreted in responsible circles as closing this avenue to an adjustment.

At the same time treasury officials let it be known that a continuance by foreign ships companies of bringing beverage liquors into American territorial waters would be dealt with in as vigorous a manner as do possible in as warranted. It was revealed that new regulations covering the seizure of liquor carrying liners in American waters had been drafted in tentative form and whether they would be put into effect would depend on the foreign shipping lines themselves. The hope was asserted that such a step would be unnecessary.

What the next step will be is not indicated, although American officials have pointed out the only opportunity for mitigating conditions through a change of law, either by a treaty, a proposal which Great Britain has refused—or amending the Volstead act in a manner to give foreign shipping companies the consideration they feel is their due, under rules of international comity.

Some officials today voiced the possibility of such amendatory legislation as more remote because of the British refusal to have the right of search extended to the twelve mile limit in the light on rum smuggling craft.

Still Consider American Bargain

LONDON, June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Although Britain has rejected the American proposal for a prohibition 12-mile limit, it is under consideration today, Great Britain cannot accept the proposal of the United States to extend to 12 miles the limit within which vessels may be searched for liquor, Lord Curzon informed the house of lords yesterday. Reviewing the effects of the American prohibition policy on British shipping as well as the legal aspects of that policy, from the British standpoint, the foreign secretary said consideration "of the American bargain" was still continuing under Ronald McNeill, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs.

Former Local Resident Sent To Pen

COLUMBUS, O., June 29.—An anas sword, 27, formerly of Portsmouth, the champion escaper from the Mansfield Reformatory, was sentenced to the state penitentiary for 15 years today in the Franklin county criminal court for participating in the holding up of Charles W. Marlow in his restaurant Apr. 14 and the theft of $2300. Just a few days before the Marlow holdup, Swords was released from the Mansfield Reformatory where he was serving a sentence for automobile stealing, and from where he had escaped on three different occasions while a prisoner. Two thousand dollars of the amount stolen by Swords and his three associates was recovered.

William Bond, aged 17, jointly indicted with Swords pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the Mansfield Reformatory. Swords and Bond, both of whom belong on the West Side, were apprehended in this city by Sheriff Harry M. Dunham and his deputies, about a week following the holding up of the Marlow soft drink establishment on South Parsons avenue, Columbus, and the pair had over $1200 of the stolen money in their possession when taken into custody. Two young women companions, Clarice Warner and Grace McGee, were also taken into custody but they were later released when it developed they had no part in the robbery.

British Labor Declines To Adopt View Royalty No Longer Needed

LONDON, June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—British labor declined today to adopt the view that the royal family is no longer a necessary part of the British constitution. Delegates of the labor party from Stockton asked the labor party conference in session in Queens' Hall to pass a resolution to this effect, but the motion was shelved. George Lansbury, member of parliament for Poplar said the executive committee had discussed the resolution and he was asked to oppose in the executive body's name. Mr. Lansbury said he used to think it was the monarchy and the mobility that made the people poor, but he had learned that it was the capitalist system. Royalty, he said, was "just ordinary common clay, like anybody else. They eat like you do, and they talk like you do—only a little worse occasionally—and do everything just like you do."

Mr. Geo. D. Selby Gives Interesting Talk At Meeting Of Credit Men's Association

The Credit Department, Past, Present and Future, was the subject of an interesting address made by George D. Selby, local shoe manufacturer, to the Credit Men's Association at its June meeting held Thursday evening at the Mary Louise following a five o'clock luncheon. The session was to have been an outdoor one at Rushtown, but the threatening weather made a last minute change necessary.

Mr. Selby, who was the principal speaker of the evening, at the onset of his talk grew enthusiastic and told how he came to Portsmouth years ago as a representative of the Singer Sewing Machine company and how after a time he embarked in the shoe business.

He told of the many difficulties with which he was confronted in the early days, of how he "burned the midnight oil," to get started, and the policies which he used to gain success. He compared the credit work of the past with the credit work of today, touching upon the present industrial situation. He concluded his talk with an optimistic forecast of the things which the future has in store and advised caution and prudence in every undertaking, if success is desired.

Mr. Selby's talk only lasted about fifteen minutes but it was one of the most interesting and helpful which the Credit Men had listened to in some time and it was very well received.

C. C. Dowling spoke on "Sources of Credit, Information and Their Value." His talk offered much food for thought and a lively round table discussion followed. Secretary Ben Lechner, who was appointed delegate to the national convention of Credit Men at Atlanta, June 12-15, gave a report on his trip. He stated that there were thousands of delegates at the convention and that it was considered one of the most successful ever held.

The meeting was brought to a close with group singing, and entertainment by the Elks quartet, which is composed of Leo Kricker, Watson, Goddard, Edmund Kricker and Chester Riggles, accompanied by Pete Laudeman at the piano.

The next meeting of the Credit Men's Association will not be until next October. Eight meetings are held each year it having been decided to discontinue sessions during the summer months.

Nauvoo Will Get Boy Scout Chapter

The first steps toward the organization of a first Boy Scout troop at Nauvoo were taken last night when about fifteen boys of that village met at the U. Another meeting will be held next Friday night when officers will be elected. Scout Executive Henderson states that the outlook for a five wire troop at the bustling West Side village seems very promising.

Adams Co. Officials Have A Real Clue

Officials at West Union, Friday, expressed the belief that the man murdered near that village on the night of June 16th last, was R. P. Morris, a coal miner, who was on his way to visit relatives in Tennessee.

This theory, officials say, was strengthened Thursday when Deputy Sheriff Walter White of West Union, recovered an Oakland sport model machine, which is supposed to have been owned by Morris. The machine was located in New Boston, where it is assumed was left by the man, who committed the murder. Every effort is being made to locate the man, who left the death car in New Boston.

According to Sheriff Trefz of West Union, the two men had been working in the coal fields of Logan county, West Virginia, and left Logan about May 26, for this section. After they reached a lone spot about six miles this side of West Union, the murder was committed, robbery being the motive as Morris was supposed to have a large sum of money on his person.

"After the murder was committed, we believe that the man who killed Morris returned to New Boston and left the dead man's machine there," Sheriff Trefz said Friday.

"Of course this is purely circumstantial, but we have a tangible clue and are running it down from all angles. As soon as we learn positively that the man murdered was Morris, we will have something to work on."

The officials state that they have learned definitely that a man named Morris and a co-worker left Logan together for this section sometime during the latter part of May.

The young man the authorities are seeking is said to be well known in and near West Union. This young man was seen in the automobile in Adams county on May 20, and on quite a few occasions after that date and even after the finding of the body. The young man's actions caused officers to believe he might know something of the murder and after running down other clues, they started on this one. When they wanted the young man, he could not be found and then the officers started to trace the machine. They learned he had kept company with a young woman in New Boston. About three days ago, West Union officers visited the young woman and claim they found the automobile they sought in the garage used by her father. The machine was taken to a Portsmouth garage where it was kept in storage until yesterday when Deputy Sheriff Walter White returned from West Virginia, and took the machine to West Union.

After finding the machine, the officer went into West Virginia and learned to whom the license had been sold, and then learned who had purchased such a car. Tracing the movements of this man followed. According to the story told by the West Union officers, the garage where the car was found in New Boston had big cracks between the boards and these cracks had been stuffed with burlap bags.

The officers say that have information in connection with this clue which can not be given out for a few days. Within the next 48 hours they expect new developments that will throw more light upon the mystery that has caused much excitement in the West Union vicinity.

Shadows Turn To Sunshine For This "Pen" Prisoner

COLUMBUS, OHIO, June 29.—Ivan Chenkoff, Toledo, saw the world turn against him for a moment to-day and, in the next moment, saw the sun shining upon him. Chenkoff, an Ohio Penitentiary prisoner since 1915, and employed at the London Prison Farm, early to-day was seized with an attack of acute appendicitis. He was brought here for an emergency operation. Just before Chenkoff went on the operating table he received a penciled note from Warden P. E. Thomas informing him of his application for a parole had been approved. "Be brave," the Warden urged in his note; "you will be released July 20."

"Slush Fund" Charged

LAKE CITY, FLA., June 29.—Charges by the defense that a "slush fund" had been raised in North Dakota to prosecute Thomas W. Higginbotham, whipping boss, which was characterized by the state as a play to prejudice the jury, was the feature of to-day's session of the trial. Higginbotham is charged with the murder of Martin Tabert, of North Dakota, it being alleged that he whipped the Dakotan to death while Tabert was a convict under lease to the Putnam Lumber Company 18 months ago. The state took exception to accusations made by the defense that Graham Ward, a state witness, claimed he had been offered $5,000 by the state to testify. Ward denied such an offer had been made and also that he had made a statement to that effect.

Joseph Beasley, of Lucasville, car repairer employed at the N. and W. terminals, sustained a painful injury yesterday afternoon when a chip from a spike he was driving flew up with such force that the missile was deeply imbedded in his right thigh. An x-ray showed that it would require a deep incision to remove the object and Beasley decided to allow it to remain unless it causes him further trouble.

PLANS FOR SEIZING FOREIGN SHIPS DRAFTED

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Treasury officials revealed to-day for the first time that the proposal to seize liquor-carrying liners in American waters had reached the stage where new regulations to carry such a policy into effect had been drafted in tentative form and were in the hands of the prohibition unit.

Whether the ruling is to receive final approval and be put into execution depends on the foreign shipping lines themselves. Acting Secretary Gilbert said to-day he hoped such a course would be unnecessary, but it was reiterated at the Treasury that a continuance of the present open disregard of the prohibition on importation would be dealt with in a vigorous manner as developments warranted.

Mr. Gilbert's statement is understood to have been made after he had heard that several of the foreign shipping companies were ready to abandon their program of bringing to this side of the Atlantic under seal a sufficient stock of liquor to supply passengers on the return voyage. He had said previously that this Government could not continue to tolerate what was regarded as a tolerated as a studied effort by the foreign shipping companies to ascertain how far they could go in the attempts to bring beverage liquor inside the American three-mile limit.

Will Not Repeat
Information in the hands of Treasury officials is said to indicate that few, if any of the vessels whose bar supplies have been seized by American officials, will repeat the attempt. Officials argued that shipping companies would not continue to bar liquor stocks only to have them confiscated when they entered American waters. But the threat of employing the drastic provision of seizure of the ships was reiterated as a means of checking any continuation of the effort to retain supplies for a return voyage.

Bostwick And Jones Fined

William Bostwick, bartender, and Tom Jones, a patron, arrested in a raid on the National Cafe, 743 Second street, on June 13 last, by state prohibition inspectors, were convicted at a hearing yesterday of possession of liquor unlawfully and they were fined $200 and costs, each by Squire J. L. Ricker.

It was claimed by the arresting officers that when they entered the soft drink establishment on the night of the raid Bostwick attempted to destroy the evidence by pulling a half pint bottle from his pocket and smashing it against the wall. The officers testified Jones had a flask containing liquor in his pocket when he was taken into custody.

Attorney P. C. Beatty, who defended the two men, indicated that he would prosecute error proceedings to the Common Pleas court in the Bostwick case. Jones will probably serve out his fine in the county jail.

City Zoning Laws Urged By Speakers At Real Estate Meet

CLEVELAND, OHIO, June 29—Necessity for zoning laws, enforced restrictions in residence-neighborhood and for encouragement of building and loan associations were urged by speakers at today's sessions of the sixteenth annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

There has been no movement in recent years that has so quickly committed itself to all classes in a community as city zoning, Lawrence Veiller of New York, secretary of the organization, told the delegates.

State control of municipal tax levies and bond issues to prevent extravagant and unnecessary expenditures, which are first reflected in the high price of real estate was championed by Judge William A. Hough, member of the Indiana Board of Tax Commissioners.

In spite of the superiority of the White Frost, round, all-metal refrigerator, it costs no more than the old style.

It's surprising to learn this because the

is undoubtedly the best constructed on the market today. There is no wood to warp, nor seams to permit the cold to escape or harbor germ-growth and living organisms. It is all metal, with a dead air space carefully sealed between the two jackets. In addition it is further insulated with ground cork, the best insulation known to refrigeration engineers.

Its circular form and white enamel interior and exterior makes it sanitary and easy to clean. The circular shelves revolve at a touch. The White Frost is made in two sizes, with or without the water bottle pictured.

Miss Dolly Wise

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

SOCIAL NEWS

Miss Wise—Can you tell me what kind of paint that is used to paint the snow-white dogs and other chalk ornaments as I have some that need repainting badly, and also what are the primary colors in house paint?

A WOULD-BE PAINTER.
Use alabaster, which can be obtained at all paint shops in any color you prefer. You can obtain housepaint in all colors also, or the paint can be mixed to suit your preference.

Dear Dolly—You have answered other letters and I wish you would answer mine. Now, Dolly, I am 19 and will be 20 in July, and I go with the most wonderful boy in Portsmouth. He says he loves me, but, Dolly, he tells other girls that he has other girls on so and so streets. Do you think he loves me? When I ask him about what other girls he says "Can't I kid you girls once in awhile?" I have thought of not going with him any more, but I would like to have your advice first. Now, Dolly, there is a girl in our neighborhood who comes to our house and gets into every thing she can find. She uses my powder and she tries on my dresses, and she puts on my shoes, and when mother is getting supper she goes in and asks her what she is going to have for supper, and says she is coming over. When I have fellow friends come she always thinks of saying everything she can think of. She is getting more like a boy every day, and when anybody looks at her, she begins to laugh. Now, Dolly, what must I do? SUGAR LUMP.
If he kids the other girls when he tells them what he means what he tells you? He is trifling with you and with them; so it is better not to do such good friends with him. You would certainly know if he were serious, and he is too young just yet to be serious. If that girl friend of yours is so snooty, then you should tell her to keep out of your belongings. Squelch her once and I dare say that she will change her manners.

Dear Miss Wise—I have a large quantity of grease saved as someone told me that I could make excellent laundry soap with it. Can you give me a recipe? YOUNG WIFE.

Dissolve 1 pound concentrated lye in 2 quarts boiling water. Use an enameled vessel, as it will corrode aluminum or iron or tin. Let stand until lukewarm, then pour into 15 pounds of clean, strained grease, also lukewarm. Stir twenty minutes, and while stirring pour in gradually 3 ounces of ammonia. A little oil of bergamot or sassafras may be added to give it a pleasant odor. Pour into shallow pans and cut into cakes as soon as cool and firm.

Elvira—If you will call me at 840 I may be able to give you the information you desire.
You should consult a physician immediately as any procedure on your part would be dangerous.

THE CHOO-CHOO TRAIN DISAPPEARS

"Oh, I'm so glad you found her," she said kindly.
Nancy took her sewing things out of her little pocket and sewed up Ruby Joan's head and tacked her shoe-button eyes firmly in place.
"Now you can look out of the window," she said, setting the doll up on her knee as the little Choo-Choo Express made its return trip through Choo-Choo Land.
They stopped at all the stations they had stopped at before, but this time they didn't get off.
At China Town the Chinese doll was waiting at the station.
"Oh, I'm so glad you found her," she said kindly. "Now I'm going back to Doll Town where I live. Would you like to go, too?" she asked Ruby Joan.
"No, thanks," said the rag doll, huddling up closer to her newly found mistress.
At Tick-Tock Town the grandfather's clock looked in the window. "I see you've found your doll, young lady," he said in his deep voice. "Try to be more careful in the future. When I was young, three hundred years ago, little girls were not so careless."
Toot! Toot!
The little train pulled out before old grand-daddy clock could finish his lecture.
At Finkle Town all the bells began to toll at once. "Ruby Joan is found!" they called to each other.
At Mother Goose Town Ro-Pee peeped through the window. "Where did you find her?" she asked.
"In Lost Town," Nancy said.
"Then I'll go there right away and look for my sheep," said Ro-Pee waving goodbye.
The good news spread through Zo-Zo Town and Circus Town and Pin-Town and every place in Choo-Choo Land. "Ruby Joan is found!" shouted everybody.
At last the little train was at the end of its journey. "Goodbye, Mister Toons. Goodbye, Mister Punch. Goodbye, Mister Pin. But lo and behold they had disappeared! So had the Choo-Choo Land Express."

"What became of Hoppy?" asked Jack, as he suddenly remembered that Hoppy had been with them just before they put on the flying shoes. "Oh, he's hopping along and is probably on the ground right under us," replied Trixie. And, sure enough, that's just where Hoppy was hopping.

Then Jack looked down and saw that they were approaching a camp fire of some sort. "What is that place?" asked Jack. "That's where arrows are bound for," replied Trixie. "And as soon as it reaches there, it will understand why I had you shoot it." (Continued.)

Man Sheds Tears Of Joy Over Boy's Recovery

Health Evangelist Dyer who has been here for some time with the free minstrel show during which he demonstrates World's Tonic is probably making a great deal of money in spite of the fact that he seems to care nothing for the dollars that buyers of the medicine eagerly pay him.

But when one really learns of the good this man and his medicine are doing for sick and suffering humanity, who will begrudge the small change he makes for it?

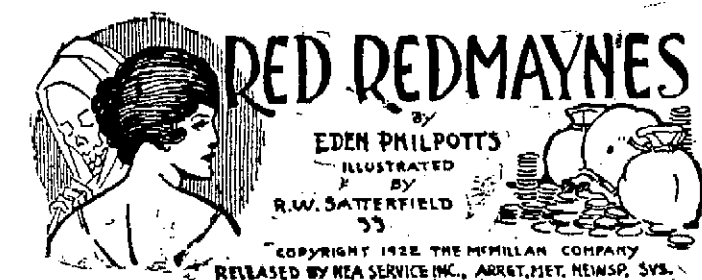

Tears streamed down the cheeks of Mr. John Turner of New Boston, employed at the steel plant—as he told what World's Tonic had done for his little boy whom he says he never expected to live.

"For nine years I expected every day to be notified of the little fellow's death, I tried doctors everywhere but they did not cure. Some said it was liver trouble; some said gall stones; others said it was his appendix and advised an operation. He was operated all the time. Sometimes his appetite was poor and again he could not get enough to eat. He was miserable all the time. A friend of mine urged me to try World's Tonic for him and I did so. I had only given him two doses when this horrible thing passed from him," and with that Mr. Turner pointed to an enormous parasite or tape worm which he had in a fruit jar.

"No wonder people get sick with these monsters inside of them," he continued. "I believe that hundreds of others have them and do not realize it. What a blessing it would be for them if they would only try this medicine in the first place instead of wasting time and money as I did, to say nothing of the suffering caused by the delay. I certainly advise everyone to get a bottle of World's Tonic and try it for I know many who have been benefited by it."

World's Tonic is sold by Wurstler and Stewart's and all other good drug stores at only one dollar per bottle. It is also being demonstrated at the free minstrel, Campbell Avenue near Jackson street, every night.—Advertisement.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Mark Brendon, famous criminal investigator, is engaged by Jenny Pendean to solve the mysterious disappearance of her husband, Michael. Pendean is last seen in the company of Robert Redmayne, uncle of Jenny, when the two men visit a new bungalow being built by Michael near Egginton Quarry.

Brendon is found on the floor of the cottage and witnesses testify to having seen Robert ride away on his motor bicycle with a heavy sack behind the saddle. The sack is found at a far distance from the scene of the mystery.

Jenny goes to live with her uncle, Bendigo Redmayne. Brendon calls at Bendigo's home and meets Giuseppe Doria, who works there. Bendigo shows Mark a letter supposed to be from Robert Redmayne.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
"Now, what is more, both Miss Reed and her parents made it clear that the soldier was of an excellent and certain nature. In fact, Mr. Reed didn't much approve of the match. He described a man who might very easily slip over the border line between reason and unreason. No, Halfyard, you'll not find any theory to hold water but the theory of a mental breakdown. The letter he wrote to his brother quite confirms it. The very writing shows a lack of restraint and self-control."

"The writing was really his?"

"I've compared it with another letter in Bendigo Redmayne's possession. It's a peculiar fist. I should say there couldn't be a shadow of doubt."

"What shall you do next?" asked Halfyard.

"Get back to Plymouth again and make close inquiries among the union boats. They go and come and I can trace the craft that left Plymouth during the days that immediately followed the posting of Redmayne's letter. These will probably be back again with another load in a week or two. One ought to be able to check them."

"A wild-goose chase, Brendon."

"Looks to me as though the whole inquiry had been pretty much so from the first. I've missed the boy somewhere. How the man that left Plymouth in knickerbockers, and a big check suit and a real waistcoat on the morning after the murder got away with it and never challenged a single eye on rail or road—well, it's such a flat contradiction to reason and experience that I can't easily believe the face value."

"No—there's a breakdown somewhere—that's what I'm telling you; but whether the fault is ours, or a trick has been played to put us fairly out of the running, no doubt you'll find out soon or late. I don't see there's anything more we can do up here whether or no."

"There isn't," admitted Mark. "It's all been routine work and a devil of lot of time wasted in my opinion. Between ourselves, I'm rather ashamed of myself, Halfyard. I've missed something—the thing that most mattered. There's a signpost sticking up somewhere that I never saw."

The inspector nodded. "It happens so sometimes—crucial vexing—and then people laugh at us and ask how we earn our money. Now and again, as you say, there's a danger signal to a case so clear as the nose on a man's face, and yet owing to following some other clue, or sticking to a theory that we feel can and must be the only right one, we miss the real, vital point till we go and bark our shins on it. And then, perhaps, it's too late and we look silly."

Brendon admitted the truth of this experience. "There can only be two possible situations," he said; "either this was a motiveless murder—and lack of motive means insanity; or else there was a deep reason for it and Redmayne killed Pendean, after plotting far in advance to do so and get clear himself. In the first case he would have been found, unless he had committed suicide in some such cunning fashion that we can't discover the body. In the second case, he's a very cute bird indeed and the ride to Falmouth and disposal of the corpse—that all looked so mad—was supercraft on his part. But, if alive, mad or sane, I'm of opinion he did what he said in his letter to his brother he meant to do, and got off for a French or Spanish port. So that's the next step for me—to try and hunt down the boat that took him."

He pursued this policy, left Princetown for Plymouth on the following day, took a room at a sailors' inn on the Barbican and with the help of the harbor authority followed the voyages of a dozen small vessels which had been berthing at Plymouth during the critical days.

A month of arduous work Mark devoted to this stage of the inquiry, and his investigation produced nothing whatever. Not a skipper of any vessel involved could furnish the least information and no man resembling Robert Redmayne had been seen by the harbor police, or any independent person at Plymouth, despite sharp watchfulness.

A time came when the detective was recalled to London and heartily chaffed for his failure; but his own unusual disappointment disarmed the amusement at his expense. The case had presented such few apparent difficulties that Brendon's complete unsuccess astonished his chief. He was content, however, to believe Mark's own conviction: that Robert Redmayne had never left England but destroyed himself—probably soon after the dispatch of his letter to Bendigo from Plymouth.

Much demanded attention and Brendon was soon devoting himself to a diamond robbery in the Midlands. Months passed, the body of Michael Pendean had not been recovered, and the little world of Scotland Yard pigeon-holed the mystery, while the larger world forgot all about it.

Meantime, with a sense of secret relief, Mark-Brendon prepared to face what had sprung out of these incidents, while permitting events themselves to pass from his present interests. They remained Jenny Pendean and his mind was deeply preoccupied with her.

HE FOLLOWED THE VOYAGES OF A DOZEN SMALL VESSELS.

Indeed, apart from the daily toll of work, she filled it to the exclusion of every other personal consideration. He longed unspeakably to see her again, for though he had corresponded during the progress of his inquiries and kept her closely informed of everything that he was doing, the excuse for these communications no longer existed. She had acknowledged every letter, but her replies were brief and she had given him no information concerning herself, or her future intentions, though he had asked her to do so. One item of information only had she vouchsafed and he learned that she was finishing the bungalow to her husband's original plan and then seeking a possible customer to take over her lease. She wrote:

"I cannot see Dartmoor again, for it means my happiest as well as my most unhappy hours. I shall never be so happy again and, I hope, never suffer so unspeakably as I have during the recent past."

He turned over this sentence many times and considered the weight of every word. He concluded from it that Jenny Pendean, while aware that her greatest joys were gone forever, yet looked forward to a time when her present desolation might give place to a truer tranquility and content.

The fact that this should be so, however, astonished Brendon. He judged perhaps her words would be chosen and that she implied a swift return to peace than in reality would occur. He had guessed that a year at least, instead of merely these four months, must pass before her terrible sorrow could begin to dim. Indeed he felt sure of it and concluded that he was reading an implication into this pregnant sentence that she had never intended to carry. He longed to see her and was just planning how to do so, when chance offered an opportunity.

Brendon was called to arrest two Russians, due to arrive at Plymouth from New York upon a day in mid-December; and having identified them and testified to their previous activities in England, he was free for a while. Without saying any warning, he proceeded to Dartmoor and put up there that night, and started, at nine o'clock on the following morning, to walk to "Crow's Nest."

His heart beat hard and two thoughts moved together in it, for not only did he intensely desire to see the widow but also had a wish to surprise the little community on the cliffs for another reason. Since some vague suspicion held his mind that Bendigo Redmayne might be assisting his brother, the idea was shrewd, yet he had never wholly lost it and more than once contemplated such a surprise visit as he was now about to pay.

Suspicion, however, seemed to diminish as he ascended great heights west of the river estuary; and when within the space of two hours he had reached a place from which "Crow's Nest" could be seen, perched between the cliff heights and a gray, watery sea, nothing but the anticipated vision of the woman held his mind.

He came ignorant of the startling events awaiting him, little guessing how both the story of his secret dream and the chronicle of the quarry crime were destined to be advanced by great incidents before the day was done.

His road ran over the cliffs and about him swept brown and naked fields under the winter sky. Here and there a meadow gull flew overhead and the only sign of other life was a ploughman crawling behind his horses with more sea fowl fluttering in his wake.

Brendon came at last to a white gate facing on the highway and found that he had reached the destination. He looked at "Crow's Nest" as he listened in letters stamped upon a bronze plate, and above it rose a post with a receptacle for holding a lamp at night. The road to the house fell steeply down and, far beneath, he saw the flagstaff and the tower room rising above the dwelling.

A bleakness and melancholy seemed to encompass the spot on this sombre day. The wind sighed and sent a tremor of light through the dead grass; the horizon was invisible, for mist concealed it; and from the low and ash-colored vapor the sea crept out with its monotonous, myriad wavelets flecked here and there by a feather of foam.

As he descended Brendon saw a man at work in the garden setting up a two-foot barrier of woven wire. It was evidently intended to keep the rabbits from the cultivated flower beds which had been dug from the green slope of the comb.

HE FOLLOWED THE VOYAGES OF A DOZEN SMALL VESSELS.

Indeed, apart from the daily toll of work, she filled it to the exclusion of every other personal consideration. He longed unspeakably to see her again, for though he had corresponded during the progress of his inquiries and kept her closely informed of everything that he was doing, the excuse for these communications no longer existed. She had acknowledged every letter, but her replies were brief and she had given him no information concerning herself, or her future intentions, though he had asked her to do so. One item of information only had she vouchsafed and he learned that she was finishing the bungalow to her husband's original plan and then seeking a possible customer to take over her lease. She wrote:

"I cannot see Dartmoor again, for it means my happiest as well as my most unhappy hours. I shall never be so happy again and, I hope, never suffer so unspeakably as I have during the recent past."

He turned over this sentence many times and considered the weight of every word. He concluded from it that Jenny Pendean, while aware that her greatest joys were gone forever, yet looked forward to a time when her present desolation might give place to a truer tranquility and content.

The fact that this should be so, however, astonished Brendon. He judged perhaps her words would be chosen and that she implied a swift return to peace than in reality would occur. He had guessed that a year at least, instead of merely these four months, must pass before her terrible sorrow could begin to dim. Indeed he felt sure of it and concluded that he was reading an implication into this pregnant sentence that she had never intended to carry. He longed to see her and was just planning how to do so, when chance offered an opportunity.

Brendon was called to arrest two Russians, due to arrive at Plymouth from New York upon a day in mid-December; and having identified them and testified to their previous activities in England, he was free for a while. Without saying any warning, he proceeded to Dartmoor and put up there that night, and started, at nine o'clock on the following morning, to walk to "Crow's Nest."

His heart beat hard and two thoughts moved together in it, for not only did he intensely desire to see the widow but also had a wish to surprise the little community on the cliffs for another reason. Since some vague suspicion held his mind that Bendigo Redmayne might be assisting his brother, the idea was shrewd, yet he had never wholly lost it and more than once contemplated such a surprise visit as he was now about to pay.

Suspicion, however, seemed to diminish as he ascended great heights west of the river estuary; and when within the space of two hours he had reached a place from which "Crow's Nest" could be seen, perched between the cliff heights and a gray, watery sea, nothing but the anticipated vision of the woman held his mind.

He came ignorant of the startling events awaiting him, little guessing how both the story of his secret dream and the chronicle of the quarry crime were destined to be advanced by great incidents before the day was done.

His road ran over the cliffs and about him swept brown and naked fields under the winter sky. Here and there a meadow gull flew overhead and the only sign of other life was a ploughman crawling behind his horses with more sea fowl fluttering in his wake.

Brendon came at last to a white gate facing on the highway and found that he had reached the destination. He looked at "Crow's Nest" as he listened in letters stamped upon a bronze plate, and above it rose a post with a receptacle for holding a lamp at night. The road to the house fell steeply down and, far beneath, he saw the flagstaff and the tower room rising above the dwelling.

A bleakness and melancholy seemed to encompass the spot on this sombre day. The wind sighed and sent a tremor of light through the dead grass; the horizon was invisible, for mist concealed it; and from the low and ash-colored vapor

UNION BAPTIST PICNIC JULY 28

Plans for the big Union Baptist Picnic for all the Baptist Sunday Schools of the county, to be held at the Lucasville Fair Grounds all day, July 28, are progressing rapidly and a most interesting program is being arranged for the event. It is understood that the sports committee is arranging for a number of contests, such as baseball, horseshoe pitching, racing and various other sorts of amusements to be participated in throughout the entire day. One of the principal features of the day will be the big basket dinner to be served on the grounds and everyone is urged to come with a well filled basket. Refreshments such as soft drinks, watermelons, etc., may be procured on the grounds.

Committees have been appointed to look after the various divisions of the big entertainment with Mr. Thomas D. Smith, superintendent of the First Baptist Sunday School, this city, as general chairman. Co-Operation is being promised by the various churches of the county, and it is expected that all will send big delegations to the annual event. The committee on publicity is making an effort to make individual visits to all the rural Baptist Sunday Schools of the county, and extend a personal invitation to each school to participate, and through this method much more enthusiasm is being created and a much larger crowd is being anticipated for this year than on previous occasions. The publicity committee desires to state that they are doing all in their power to make an individual visit to each Sunday School, and if they do not get to your school it will be because the time is too limited to do so, and it is hoped that any school that is not visited will not feel that it was an oversight on the committee's part, but will make every preparation to attend the picnic whether the committee is able to visit the school or not. The committee in charge hopes to have at least 2,000 Baptists present at the big annual event.

Harding Suggests Plan For Shortening Bridge Between Producer, Consumer

IDAHO FALLS, IDAHO, June 29.—(By The A. P.)—Declaring that the need of the present is to shorten the bridge between producer and consumer, President Harding in an address yesterday proposed a plan of co-operation among consumers, financed in part at least through a carefully organized and supervised adaptation of principles of the savings bank or the building and loan society.

"I believe the suggestion is worthy of careful examination and consideration," the President asserted. "I am convinced that its discussion would be fruitful of good results and a reminder of some who are disposed to take unreasonable tolls from both the consuming and the producing public, that this public has the right to the power and the ability to devise means to protect itself."

The President further said that as a result of studies and investigations he hoped to be able "to recommend measures which shall represent a beginning along this line."

"One of the most engrossing problems of our time, confronting all countries and all societies is the exorbitant cost of living," the President said.

"We realize that the real producer, under our elaborate and costly system of distribution is not permitted a fair share of his product for his own use and enjoyment. We have become convinced that somehow our system of distribution has grown too cumbersome, too costly, too complex, too indirect, too unrelated to the interests of real producers and legitimate consumers. We must find methods to take up as much as possible of the slack in the long line between producer and consumer; to give the producer a better share in that which he furnishes to the community, and to enable the consumer to meet his requirements at reasonable costs.

"To this end many experiments have been made in co-operative production, transportation, distribution and purchasing. To a great extent, these experiments have proceeded from the enterprise and initiative of the western people, to whom these problems have presented themselves with especial insistence.

In Closer Harmony.

"Developments of the last generation have brought the instrumentalities of transportation, of finance, of co-operative organization, and operation into a closer harmony with the true public interest, than ever before. The government has sought to make itself helpful, to point the way, to remove ancient barriers of custom or tradition, and to curb the excessive demands of privilege, in order to cheapen for the great public many of the services which formerly were dominated by the private interests and operated with too exclusive a consideration for private profit. Any thing tending to break down personal initiative to destroy enterprise and ambition, must not enter into any program which can hope for the approval of the American people. The kind of a program to encourage co-operation and co-ordination which I have in mind, would not interfere with the freedom of proper opportunity; rather, it would enhance the individual chance to better his individual fortune.

"The need of this time is to shorten the bridge between producer and consumer, and to reduce the toll that must be paid for passing over it. We all know a good deal about the various co-operative societies, associations, and corporations which have undertaken, in many cases with notable success, to improve the position of the agricultural producers, such organizations have been successful in all parts of this country, and in many parts of the old world. They have already done a great work and taught us many valuable lessons. Where there are obstacles, imposed by unfortunate statutes or public policies, or in the way of expanding such activities as these, they might well be gradually removed through measures of helpfulness and encouragement.

Farmers Alive to Situation.

"On the whole, I think the agricultural community has been more alive to the promotion of its interests along these lines than has the urban community. The farmers have been more prompt and energetic in adopting effective measures to promote them, than the people of the city, and town have been. There is need to have working and practical co-operative associations of producers in the country and at the same time to have equally effective co-operations among the consuming communities of the cities and towns; and, finally, to link these two sets of co-operators together in a co-ordination for mutual advantage to both. I believe it is possible, and altogether desirable, that systems of credit and finance should be developed under the public auspices, to encourage both these kinds of co-operation; and to draw them together into a harmonious working scheme of widespread distribution at the lowest possible expense.

"Some critics have indeed protested that it was class legislation. Perhaps it were; but as I suggested in discussing the problems of agriculture in Kansas the other day, it was in the interest of a vitally important section of the community which has heretofore had altogether too little consideration.

"It is a big and pregnant subject to which no thinking man or woman can deny the fullest and most careful consideration. My thought is that government should give the largest encouragement, consistent with sound economics and property government functions, to every effort of the people to help themselves in dealing with the high cost of living and the relationship of incomes to our household budgets."

ventions should be requested to include an enforcement plank in their platform.

"The other faction headed by Dr. Howard H. Russell, argues that it is the duty of the government to enforce laws and therefore no issue is involved; further they stated, it would be a departure from the league's program of 30 years, which has been to let platforms alone and quiz candidates. This faction also set forth that should one party adopt an enforcement plank and the other should not, it might prove embarrassing to the league. Other work of the committee, leaders say, would include final approval of plans for the 1924 campaign which calls for the collection and expenditure of $2,500,000.

Commend Government

WESTERVILLE, OHIO, June 29.—Satisfaction with the method in which the American Government is proceeding to "enforce our laws against alien ships and citizens, as well as against our own," was expressed today in a statement issued by national officials of the Anti-Saloon League, who are here attending a conference of State Superintendents of the organization.

"It is fundamental to the existence of a nation that it shall have the right to enforce its own laws within its own territory," the statement sets forth.

Resolutions adopted by the conference today, which will be presented to the Executive Committee of the Anti-Saloon League, which meets here tomorrow, call for use of ships of the navy to catch smugglers, whenever such use may be necessary; for (Pesky Devils Quiet!) P. D. Q. is the new chemical that puts the everlasting to the Pesky bedbug, roaches, fleas, ants and cockroaches—impossible for the pesky devils to exist where P. D. Q. is used.

PESKY BED-BUGS

Recommendations of Hotels, Hospitals, Railroads and other public institutions are a guarantee to the public that the safest, quickest and most economical way of eradicating the pesky insects is by the use of P. D. Q. as this chemical kills the eggs as well as the bugs, and will not injure the clothing.

A few pence makes a full quart, enough to kill a million bedbugs, roaches, fleas or cockroaches—and also contains a potent spout to get the insect in the hard-to-reach places and crevices.

P. D. Q. can also be used in the bath, toilet, double strength, etc.

Miners To Demand Raise

SCRANTON, PA., June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—A demand for a twenty per cent increase in the contract wage scale with an increase of a dollar a day for all men paid by the day was presented to the anthracite miners' convention here today for adoption and submission to the mine owners next week.

The list of demands drafted by the convention's scale committee follows the general lines of the demands formulated in January, 1922, and fought for five and a half months last year.

The present wage scale adopted last September expires August 31.

Other demands submitted to the convention today for adoption include the following:

A two year contract with complete recognition of the Union.

That the differential between classification of labor previous to the award of the United States anthracite coal commission shall be restored.

Uniformity and equalization of all day rates and skilled mechanics such as carpenters and blacksmiths, etc., be paid the recognized standard rates existing in the region, which shall not be less than ninety cents per hour, as a basis.

All day men to be paid time and a half time for overtime and double time for Sunday work.

That the eight hour day clause in the present agreement apply to all persons working in and around the anthracite collieries coming under the jurisdiction of the Union.

There where coal is paid for by the car, the system shall be changed and the miner paid on the tonnage basis of 2,240 pounds and where penalties are imposed for refuse that the amount of the refuse be fixed by a mine committee and colliery officials.

A more liberal and satisfactory clause in the agreement covering the question of miners who encounter abnormal conditions in their working place.

The list includes other demands of a technical nature most of which were embraced in those presented to the operators last year.

Vets' Convention Near Close

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., June 29.—(By the Associated Press)—Election of officers and adoption of committee reports today will conclude the annual convention of the disabled American Veterans of the World War, in session here since Monday.

Veterans, whose names have been mentioned in convention gossip as candidates for national commander, include the organization's present head, Captain C. Hamilton Cook, of Buffalo, N. Y., and James A. MacFarlane, of Atlanta, Ga., now a junior vice commander. Cook, however, has announced he does not seek the office again.

The convention has divided into two factions, one headed by Cook and the other by Judge Robert Marx, of Cincinnati. Judge Marx is chairman of the committee on finance, whose majority report giving more than $20,000 in world's series money to the National body was adopted by the convention last night after a long fight. New York City chapters had sought exclusive use of the money which was part of the proceeds of the world series game of last year, which Baseball Commissioner Landis gave to charity. Commander Cook supported the Marx faction and reported on the matter.

C. & O. Brakeman, Well Known Here, Met Death In Huntington Yards

Death in a tragic form was meted out to Charles Secrest, a former Portsmouth man, shortly before noon Thursday when his mangled remains were found in the C. & O. railroad yards at Huntington, where he was employed as a brakeman. He was 20 years old and a native of Argenta, over miles back of Fullerton.

Fellow workmen were unable to say just how Secrest came to his death, as there were no eyewitnesses to the accident, but it is believed he fell off the rear of the tender while the locomotive was backing up or was hit when he attempted to cross the tracks as the engine approached. His mangled remains were found alongside the tracks by the yard crew.

Death must have been instantaneous for the body was cut to pieces. The mangled remains were removed to a Huntington undertaking parlor and the relatives notified.

Mr. Secrest had been employed as brakeman on the C. & O. about two years. He worked on yard trains and yesterday was to go back to Russell with the loose engine after setting off 80 cars in the Huntington yards. Several years ago Secrest was employed at the New Boston steel plant. While working here he made his home with his sister Mrs. Clay Bennett of Timmonds avenue.

Surviving are the widow and two children Emma Frances and Mildred.

His parents Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Secrest and a brother Bennett Secrest live at Argenta, also known as Bennett's Mill. Mrs. Clay Bennett, a sister, lives in Scottdale. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett of 1236 Sixth street are uncle and aunt and Mrs. Charles F. Sriklett, 2315 Grant street, an aunt of the accident victim.

PRINT THIS ABOUT Joint - Ease Says Druggist

"Joint-Ease is selling like hot cakes in my store because it is a wonderful and speedy remedy for all joint troubles. But why not impress on tens of thousands of suffering people some of the things that dozens of my customers tell me almost daily."

"Some say that it knocks out lumbago over night—Others assert that for chest colds and sore throat it has no equal, while many insist that there is nothing they ever tried that is so efficient for neuralgia, neuritis and even head colds and nasal catarrh."

Answering the above letter, we the makers of Joint-Ease, know that what this thriving New Jersey druggist says is true, but we still maintain that Joint-Ease is prepared for stiff, inflamed, painful, swollen joints, whether in ankle, knee, hip, elbow, shoulder, fingers or spine. You'll like to use stainless, Joint-Ease, for with just one minute's rubbing, it soaks in through the flesh direct to the ailing bones and ligaments—that's why it succeeds—for when Joint-Ease gets in joint agony gets out—And without any waste of time all swelling and congestion disappears. SOUND TESTIMONIAL EVIDENCE showing the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of women is constantly being published in this paper. The strongest recommendation any article can have is that borne by the persons who use it. Once ill with ailments that caused suffering and despair, but now restored to the joys of health, from a grateful heart, multitudes of women write letters of appreciation to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., of Lynn, Mass. Such evidence of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the ills of women should induce every suffering woman to try it.—Advertisement.

COLUMBUS WOMAN NAMED G. O. P. ASSOCIATE NATIONAL COMMITTEEMAN

CINCINNATI, O., June 29 — Republican National Committeeman from Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee and Indiana met yesterday in regional conference with John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican National Committee, for the purpose of ascertaining political conditions in the five states and to prepare tentatively for the presidential campaign, next year. Party policies, platform or candidates were not discussed, it was announced at the close of the conference, which was held behind closed doors.

After the meeting, announcement was made by R. E. Hynicka, Ohio National Committeeman, that agreement had been reached to name Mrs. John Gordon Battelle, Columbus, to be Associate National Committeeman from Ohio. Mrs. A. T. Hert, Louisville, and Mrs. Mary Childs Howard, Chattanooga, were chosen to serve in like capacity for Kentucky and Tennessee, respectively.

Appointment of John S. Fouché, of Chattanooga, as chairman of the ways and means committee of Tennessee, also was announced by the committeemen from that state.

Chairman Adams reported a 100 per cent attendance of delegates from the five states at the conference.

Lever Indictments

Remain On Docket

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., June 29 — While indictments against 226 coal operators, officials of the Mine Workers' Union and mining companies returned here February 25, 1921, were dismissed in the United States District Court here today, on motion of United States Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, indictments against 125 operators and officials of the union, returned November 8, 1920, under the Lever act, remained on the court docket.

The indictments dismissed were returned under the Sherman anti-trust law, and it was generally believed the latter superceded the indictments returned in 1920, although neither case was ever called for trial. All of the defendants in the case remaining on the docket were named in the indictments dismissed and practically all the same charges are set out.

All of the defendants in the original case are free on their own recognizance, and the court records show the case indefinitely postponed. Attorney General Daugherty said tonight that he would take no action on the Lever act case for some time, and may let it go over until fall.

FORMER DRY AGENTS

CINCINNATI, OHIO, June 29 — Rex Hedges and Andrew Moore, former Newtown dry agents, were convicted on a charge of blackmail today by a jury, which included eight women, in the Criminal Court.

The complaining witness, Harry Bowman, cafe proprietor, testified that, on May 30, in the presence of the police, he paid them the blackmail in marked money.

Yanks Cop First In Important Series

NEW YORK, June 29 — The New York Yankees won the first game of their decisive series with the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday 4 to 2, and increased their margin in first place to six games.

St. Louis won first blood in its series with Detroit for last place in the first division. Boston beat Washington in the first of their series for last place and rain prevented the Chicago-Cleveland game.

Rain also prevented the opener of the important Pittsburgh-Cincinnati series, but the New York Giants kept piling up a lead, winning their tenth straight, 4 to 2, from Boston.

Market News

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, June 29.—Prices continued their upward course at the opening of today's stock market with the initial demand centered in the motors, accessories, rails and a few specialties. Studebaker, Stewart-Warner, Union Pacific, General Electric and Baltimore and Ohio opened 1 to 1 1/2 points higher but Northern Pacific dropped 1/4. Some of the minor oils also were heavy.

The advance had become quite general when weakness developed in Bethlehem Steel, which dropped four points and Chandler Motors, off 2 each at new low prices for the year. Selling of these issues halted the upward trend in other quarters. Republic Steel also dropped to a new low. Foreign exchanges opened slightly lower.

Publication in the financial district of unfavorable steel trade advice apparently was responsible for heavy selling of steel shares nearly all of which broke through their previous low prices for the year. This weakness also extended to the equipments and merchandising shares and a few specialties. The motors, public utilities, coppers, sugars and rails, however, showed indications of good buying support. Call money opened at six per cent.

Professional speculators for the decline again succeeded in depressing prices in today's stock market. The steel shares were aided by continued depression of commodity prices, weak rates. Losses ranged from 1 to 5 points. Sales approximated $50,000 shares.

The closing was heavy.

Will Use Radio To Convey Market News To Farmers

(Special to Times)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29.—The largest establishment of one of the largest commercial leased wire and radio telegraph systems in the world, which will be used to extend the market news service of the United States Department of Agriculture, will carry information to Ohio farmers and consumers, through a connection to be made at Cincinnati, it was announced here today by the federal government.
This new line, to be put into effect July 1, will radiate to every section of the country, tying up the principal marketing and producing centers. The last Congress appropriated $300,000 for the work, in which $400,000 had already been expended.
The leased wire system was instituted during the war, when about 18,000 miles were installed. The service was regarded as an important factor in bringing the war to a successful conclusion by making available at all times the fullest information on the food situation.
Following the war, the service was curtailed until it comprised only 2,000 miles of wire, and only a comparatively few of the largest eastern and middle-western markets were covered. At Washington each day will be filed a mass of information of great value to producers and consumers of Ohio, the Department of Agriculture says. It will include reports on car movements, showing the volume of perishable fruits and vegetables moving to various markets in Ohio and elsewhere.

Estimated receipts of livestock markets and general reports on livestock, meats and other products, showing supply, demand, wholesale prices and conditions, will be a daily feature. There will be reports on cattle, sheep and hogs, butter and egg quotations, local quotations and information from the big markets on fruits and vegetables.
There will be special reports on production and distribution for distribution by radio broadcasting stations.

When this service is in working order the Department of Agriculture says, farmers can so regulate their shipments as to prevent the glutting or undersupplying of markets, which is regarded as the outstanding value of the enterprise, as the result is stabilization of prices to both producers and consumers. The general public will have access to information that now, because of its almost prohibitive cost, is available only to big dealers, including the speculators, the federal officials declare.
Farmers in the most remote districts can have a daily summary of facts that vitally affect the well-being of agriculture, while consumers can know to a certainty when and where to buy to the best advantage, according to these authorities.

Court House

Schomburg Makes Denial

For answer to the alimony suit of Lois Ault Schomburg, Arthur Schomburg, Scholerville, specifically denies that he abandoned the plaintiff at any time, but avers that she abandoned him without cause and claims that for a long time after she left he maintained a good home for her and that she gave no reason for staying away, except that her parents did not want her to go back. Through Attorney B. F. Kimble the defendant specifically denies any neglect on his part towards his wife, or any ill-treatment, and declares that if the plaintiff was left to her own choice they would be living together happily. He asks that her petition be dismissed.

Final Account Filed

Socks Damages For Injuries

Suit for $10,000 damages, the result of an automobile accident, was filed in Common Pleas court Friday by Mary Noel against Elza Kearns, living on Rosemount Road. It is alleged that on Jan. 26 last, Kearns' automobile struck the plaintiff as she was along the east side of Scoto Trail, resulting in the fracture and smashing of the bones in her left arm, causing her to lose the use of the arm, besides injuring her about the head, limbs, shoulder and body. The allegations of the petition charges negligence on the part of the defendant in negligently and carelessly operating his machine at a greater speed than reasonable or proper, having regard for width, traffic, use and general, and usual rules of the highway. This action was filed through Attorneys Blair and Blair.

Native Born Farm Owners In Ohio Show Increase, Department Of Commerce Says

(Special to The Times.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29.—A negligible proportion of the aliens who have been steaming into the United States during the past two decades have gone into agricultural production. It was made known here today by the United States Department of Commerce.

The bulwark of Americanism therefore, is the American farm, this department says. For the country as a whole, the percentage of foreigners on farms decreased during the 10 year period 1910-1920, while the percentage of native born farmers has increased.

This is particularly true of Ohio, where the percentage of native born farm owners has increased from 92.9 in 1910 to 93.9 in 1920. The percentage of foreign-born farmers in the Buckeye state during the same period decreased from 6.4 to 5.5, and the percentage of negro farm owners decreased from .7 to .6.

The native born farmer in the Buckeye state has been holding his own. He still constitutes the backbone of the agricultural population by big odds, and will always be the dominating factor, according to the Department of Commerce. So far as this industry is concerned, there is no call for the Americanization movement which is being tried in other callings.

According to the latest available figures, there are today in Ohio 241,076 native white farm owners, contrasted with this, there are but 14,004 foreign born whites in actual ownership of farms, and but 1,010 negro farm owners.

The average acreage of farms owned by native whites is 93.2, while the average size of farms owned by foreign-born farmers in the Buckeye state is 68.0. The average size of farms owned by negro farmers is 62.1 acres.

For the nation as a whole, but 581,068 of the 4,017,356 farm owners are of foreign birth. In other words, but nine per cent of those engaged in agriculture have come to our shores to make their fight with destiny, which is a loss of 1.5 per cent during the past ten years.

Contrasted with this, there are 949,880 negro and other non-white farmers, representing 14.7 per cent of all those engaged in agriculture. This is a gain of two-tenths of one per cent in the last ten years, and seems to prove that there is not basis for statements that the negro is being drawn away from the land into other industries.

The percentage of native born farmers in the country increased from 75 in 1910 to 78.3 in 1920, which approximates the figures applicable to the present day, according to the Department of Commerce.

It is noteworthy, according to the Department of Commerce, that the southern states have had very little attraction for immigrants, despite the attractive inducements offered for settlement there.

Particularly significant, in connection with the federal department's study of farm population, is the disclosure that the great influx of aliens from Europe during the late seventies and early eighties have gone through the melting pot and been absorbed into what is classified as native population.

Forty years ago a large percentage of farmers throughout the country were of foreign birth. In a number of states they were overwhelmingly in the majority. The original immigrant stock, however, has passed on and been replaced by children who are American born and Americans in tradition.

This means, of course, that efforts made during the past ten or fifteen years to persuade immigrants to go into agriculture have been ineffectual against the stronger appeal of the mechanical industries.

It is the opinion of federal authorities, however, that the low state of agriculture during this period, with its ill-rewards for farmers, is to be held responsible for this condition. Many of the aliens who have entered our gates during the past twenty years came directly from European farms and were induced to transfer their roots to strange tasks because the latter offered the larger material rewards.

Will Sail For Greece

Gus Esares, Park and Rhodes avenues, New Boston, will sail from New York on the steamer King Alexander next Monday for Athens, Greece, where he will spend four months with his aged mother, four sisters and four brothers, who reside in that historical city.

It will be Mr. Esares' third trip to his native home since his coming to America.

Dando In Training

Shifty Dando has gone into real training for his bout with Johnny Rini in Chillicothe on the Fourth of July. Dando has posted a $50 forfeit that he will not weigh over 135 pounds at 10 a. m. on the day of his fight with Rini. The latter is in Jimmy Dunn's stable and is recognized as one of the best lightweights in the country. From present indications the odds will be 3 to 2 in favor of Rini when these lads enter the ring.

Preferential Policy Urged

CINCINNATI, O., June 29.—Resolution declaring in favor of building up the American merchant marine not by subsidy but by preferential treatment of various kinds, were adopted at the closing session of the Midwest Farmers and Manufacturers Association here today. The resolution recommended preferential customs duties on goods carried in American ships, preferential tonnage dues for these ships and preferential railrates for goods and passengers carried on them.

The conference also favored laws compelling American officials traveling at public expense, to use American ships, and laws providing that a certain percentage of immigrants be carried on American ships.

TO CAMPAIGN FOR PROGRESSIVES

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, announced today in a telegram sent from Butte and made public at his office here that he intended to campaign in Minnesota on behalf of Magnus Johnson, the farmer-labor candidate for United States senator. "This does not mean," the senator said in the telegram, "that I have abandoned the democratic party, but that I am convinced the democratic candidate has no chance and it is imperative that the people have another progressive representative in the senate."

LORDY! SOME MAD, SOME GLAD

Apparently I struck a popular subject in my last two ads. about the paving of Gallia Pike at Franklin Furnace, judging from what I have been hearing and am being urged to keep it up. Have been making a few inquiries but can't swear that I really know why that job is taking so long. However, to a man in an auto it would seem that there's a gentleman of color in the sand pile that has a good deal of influence in certain matters. Why? Of course I can't tell any more than I can tell why some merchants are selling duplicates of our tan and black oxfords at a dollar more than I do. Another lot just in—patents with plain toes, tans and blacks, on the new French last with tips. Choice at five-fifty.

FIRE DESTROYS WEST SIDE HOME

The home occupied by John Coleman and family at Valley View on the West Side with most of its contents was destroyed by fire, which was discovered at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Valley View is located just west of Dry Run and Mr. Coleman and family moved there two weeks ago from Beekman's Heights, West Side. They carried small insurance.

Dr. W. D. Tremper In Delegation, Which Entered Protest Against B. & L. Assessment

Washington Bureau
Portsmouth Times
(Special To Times)

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 29.—Dr. W. D. Tremper of Portsmouth was one of a delegation of stockholders in Ohio building and loan associations who called on officials of the Treasury department to protest against assessment of income taxes against their organizations. Their arrival in Washington revealed an interesting situation brought about by changes in business methods of Ohio building and loan associations, which have made many of them quasi banking concerns. This departure from the old time form of the building and loan association has recently been called to the attention of government tax experts, and may cause removal of a number of Ohio companies from the tax exempt class.

For the last five years all building and loan associations have been exempt from payment of income tax by Treasury department ruling. Their ruling was the subject of some controversy at the time it was handed down through the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and some tax experts still insist that it is erroneous.

Recently the Ohio building and loan men received intimation that the internal revenue bureau was contemplating a change which would again put their associations in the taxable class, and might make the ruling retroactive to the time of its original promulgation. Their hurried trip to Washington was the result.

Dr. Tremper and his associates, who included J. A. Devine of Columbus, and W. A. Jacoby, of Marion, declared that the prospective ruling would hit building and loan associations a stiff blow if it were made effective, as between 35 and 40 percent of the companies now in existence have made slight changes in their original organization and would be affected by the change. No funds are available from which to pay back taxes, as profits have been distributed under the law and probably spent.

The only way in which to raise funds for back taxes, they said, would be by assessment of individual stockholders, which would work a hardship in many cases.

The visitors presented their argument to Commissioner of Internal Revenue David H. Blair and other officials of the department, who assured them that they would receive consideration before any action was taken by the Treasury department.

Much Interest At Eastland

While the Juvenile Folies created a distinct hit at the Eastland theatre last night, great interest is being manifested in tonight's program, when the amateurs will hold sway. Tonight will be known as "Amateurs' Night" and there have been quite a large number of entries and this together with the rendition of Carl Lamela's great picture, "Driven," will round out one of the best performances ever given at the Eastland.

The "Juvenile Folies" will participate in "Amateur Night's" program, which will be under the personal direction of Robert Wood, the manager, and Hugh Ruel. It is estimated that more than 300 people were turned away from the Eastland last night, and in order to secure a seat it will be necessary to be on hand early this evening.

Extraordinary Rug Sale

Last November, when we placed our Spring Rug and Carpet order, with a well known jobber, we placed it with the understanding that there would be no increase in prices. Later they notified us that it would be impossible for them to fill our order, unless they did so at a large increase in prices. We refused this proposition and made arrangements and bought our supply elsewhere.

In some manner the orders got mixed, for all this week we have been receiving rugs, rugs, rugs, until now we have no place to put rugs; as the first jobber had assumed that we wanted rugs provided they would furnish them at the old price. We now have more rugs than we can conveniently handle and we are going to mark them at prices that will move them quickly.

For your own protection cut this ad. out, take it with you and see that the rug you buy bears the trade mark of the manufacturer, also see that you get it at the price that it is advertised at, let no one tell you different. Come and see for yourself.

We have but one message for you, if you are in need of a rug now, or, if you are going to need one next fall or, next year, you had better buy now and save from $5.00 to $30.00.

Jack Anxious To See Firpo In Action

(By Jack Dempsey, Heavyweight Champion of the World)
(Copyright, 1923, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

GREAT FALLS, MONT., June 29.—I'm hoping that I can get my plans shaped up nicely so that I can travel eastbound and see that Luis Firpo do his stuff in Jersey City. That's one fight I want to look at.

They tell me much about Firpo—very, very much. Tell me he's improving right along in his boxing; that he can take a terrific beating and that he can crush anybody that he hits. That makes him sound awfully tough. But I've just been trying to figure out whether Firpo will be quite so tough when he gets through with Jess. He's a physical freak. He may be well beyond forty but that makeup of his is such that he isn't much older physically than a man of thirty. I maintained when he was training for Floyd Johnson that he would make the condition grade; that he'd step into the ring and show that he was as good as ever.

And he did nearly that. With that one fight under his belt and with the confidence gained through victory and the knowledge that he still can hit and crush with that right hand of his, I look for him to give Firpo the toughest fight the South American ever had or ever thought of having. I haven't any viewpoint as to who will win. I know what Willard can do—know that he is a terrific hitter, especially with that uppercut and that he can take a mighty soaking. Never saw Firpo in action and so what I know about him is only hearsay.

My hope is that the best man will win that fight—that there'll be no fluke attached to it. And then just as soon as I can take care of Tommy Gibbons and give him that neat little spanking which he insists upon having I'll try to take care of whoever is who after the Firpo-Willard thing is over.

Kinks-o' the Links

Player drove his ball into casual water in a hazard. The hazard was a dry ditch except in very wet weather. The ball was seen to strike the water from the tee. When the ball landed it was discovered to have floated some distance away from the water in the hazard into casual water through the green. Has the player the right to lift the ball and re-drop it? Must the ball be dropped from where it entered the hazard or where the player found it in casual water through the green?

The player has a right to re-drop the ball without penalty. If the player found the ball resting in casual water through the green, he must drop it from that spot, even though he knows it first entered the casual water in the hazard.

Player tees his ball and then decides to take a couple of practice swings before driving off. His third swing struck the ground near the tee ball and caused it to drop from the tee. Is there any penalty for such a happening, the club not actually striking the ball, but the contact was so close it dislodged the ball from the tee? Would there be a penalty if the club actually hit the ball while the player was indulging in a practice swing?

A practice swing means nothing. The ball is not in play, hence no penalty is incurred because the stick struck the ground so close to the ball that it fell from the tee. There would be no penalty if it actually hit the ball since the ball is not considered in play while the golfer is indulging in a practice or limbering up swing.

Bear Cats To Tackle Dogwood Ridge Stars

The New Boston Bear Cats will have for opponents for diamond honors Sunday afternoon the strong Dogwood Ridge Stars and the battle will be staged on the North Moreland diamond. The Ridge athletes hung a defeat on the Cats recently and the New Boston nine hope to reverse the verdict on this occasion and move up on even terms. Play will be called at 2:30.

Puzzling Play's

By Billy Evans

THE PLAY

The infield fly rule causes many arguments on the ball field.

At one time each major league had a different interpretation of the play and this was very confusing. Here is an infield play that came up in the American League last season, and had players and fans guessing as to what actually happened.

There were runners on first and second and one man out. The batter hit a rather high fly in the direction of third. A stiff wind was blowing that caused the ball to take puzzling twists. The umpire, as soon as the ball was hit, decided it could be handled by the third baseman, and he declared it an infield fly which automatically retired the batsman.

The wind caused the third baseman to misjudge the fly, and it struck the ground without being touched, about a foot inside the foul line, and about ten feet in front of third base. It then bounded into foul territory, and before it could be fielded, bounded into the dugout. The runner on second scored on the play, and the runner on first went to third, on the ground rule that when the ball went into the dugout all base runners were entitled to advance two bases.

What do you suppose the umpire ruled?

THE INTERPRETATION

The umpire properly ruled it a foul ball, sent the runners back to their bases and made the batsman hit over. Despite the fact that he had once called it an infield fly, such a ruling was impossible on a foul ball. The umpire erred in calling the play a bit too quickly.

Often in such cases I call infield fly with the proviso that the ball must be a fair fly. That keeps the umpire from looking foolish, so I invariably yell, "Infield fly if it is fair" on doubtful balls.

Meet Tonight

New Champion Who Beat Siki Has Woe Ahead

Mike McGuire, holder of the world's light heavy-weight championship, as a result of a decision victory over Battling Siki, evidently isn't destined to retain the title very long.

Recently Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia decisively outpointed McGuire in an eight-round affair in that city. Prior to that Loughran had been outclassed in an eight-round affair with Jeff Smith.

Smith is a second Packy McFarland, a wonderful fighter who has never held a title. If McGuire ever gets into the same ring with Smith he can kiss goodbye to his light-heavyweight honors, in fact, he will be fortunate if he averts a knockout.

It is a rather interesting fact that the record of McGuire shows that the only defeat he has suffered on points, was a 15-round affair in which Jeff Smith was returned the winner.

Blacksnake, Which Had Taken Possession Of Bird House Killed By Charles Lovey

Caught in the act of robbing a bird house, the home of Martins, a huge black snake came to grief Thursday when Charles Lovey, of Pond Creek, brought the reptile from its lofty position with a shot from his rifle.

The snake had taken entire possession of the bird house, mounted at the top of a high pole. Lovey's attention was attracted to the unusual situation by the chattering of the birds which had been chased from their home. The reptile measured four and a half feet in length.

OWNING YOUR OWN HOME

THERE is nothing that gives a person such a feeling of security as owning one's own home. It often has been said that it is cheaper to rent than to own, but is this saying true? Is it true in the long run when everything is considered?

Where does the family get to that always lives in a rented house? What happens when the breadwinner dies or gets beyond the age of work?

Many a Portsmouth family in the last few years has had the unpleasant experience of having its home sold over its head by not having the title to the house. Renting means worry; it means moving; moving means expense, often buying new things to fit the new home. It means in the end when a man has reached a age in life when inclined to take things a little easier that he must keep at the treadmill.

Buying one's own home, except in rare instances, puts a sense of responsibility on the man and his family, sacrificing some of the pleasures of the present for comforts and pleasures later. It means thrift.

The man who rents collects a stack of rent receipts. The ordinary man and family pay the rent and spend the rest, perhaps waking up when too late to a realization that they made a serious mistake by not having a permanent home.

A home-owner always has credit at the bank. If it comes to the worst and there is sickness and death with unusual expenses, the home may be pledged to carry on until these expenses are over.

Local realtors are selling houses on the easy payment plan. Like paying rent, a comparatively small payment puts the purchaser in possession of a home and then by payment of a small amount a month which pays the interest and part of the principle, a family in a few years will own its home.

To say the least, a widow with a family of children left with a home has a long start on the woman left with only a stack of rent receipts and a few hundred dollars worth of household furniture.

MAKING TROUBLE FOR PARENTS

THERE are, of course, some young men and women who lack the sense to profit by wise counsel, and have to learn by bitter experience. Sometimes certain types of high school girls, just to assert what they consider to be their rights, will smoke cigarettes in public. They do not count the cost of publicity they may get if the school authorities catch them, and the annoyance and grief they may cause their parents. They can learn only through suffering where a word of caution would save others.

Not long ago a school board of an Arkansas town laid down some strong rules against the use of face powder or paint. Regardless of what may be thought of the board that interests itself in such matters, or as to whether it has a legal right to impose such rules, the publicity for violators could not be pleasant for them or their parents.

One girl was expelled for insistence on using face powder. She appealed to court, but the latter, while declaring that it did not think much of the rules in question, refused to compel the school authorities to reinstate her. The case was then carried to the state supreme court, and the girl lost again.

It may be trivial for grown men and courts to be concerning themselves with such things, but just the same it is very foolish for school children to set out to defy the rules; certainly not without consultation with their parents. If the parents think the rules are wrong they will take the matter up with the proper authorities. Where children defy the school officers they invariably make a mess of it, creating trouble for themselves and their parents.

In after years it may not be pleasant for the Arkansas girl in this case to reflect that she is on record in her state as using too much face powder.

PROSPERITY

GOVERNMENT statistics show that improvement of industrial conditions is a result of increased production and efficiency. This is the kind of improvement that brings satisfaction to the consumer as well as to the producer. With industry earning more and rendering greater service and with consumers having a larger supply on which to direct their demand, economic improvement must continue steadily and rapidly.

Increase of production, coupled with increase of efficiency, helps all round the compass. It helps investment capital by increasing earnings, it helps labor by making steady employment and it helps the consumer by bringing down prices.

Boys, The Town's Yours

"Here's the key to the city," says Mayor Edward L. Bader, of Atlantic City, N. J., as he hands it over to M. F. Bourjaily (left), director of the marble-shooting tournament in which the champions of 40 cities are taking part. "Hot agate," cried one of the youngsters looking on.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 29—Thoughts while strolling around New York: The new uptown Wall Street. Hurrying messengers. Famous optimists hanging over bucket shop tickers. Drugists begin to advertise new hay fever cures. There's Theodore Dreiser.

Whatever became of the New Theatre! The Rialto rumbles with rumors of another actor's strike. Weary women shoppers. Yoked to honest clods who carry the bundles: A hotel for women advertisers: "Endurance Crochet Contest" (Quiet please).

A cart load of live turtles from Florida. Dr. Frank Crane. Has a bright red tie. The gown shop is now the "atelier." Honest Tony and his ice cream wagon. He's a double for Charlie Chaplin. The color, grip and thrill of Fifth Avenue.

A business boom is on—new stores everywhere. And higher prices. Bright red lips. Sunken eyes. Spinning revolving doors. Everybody rushing madly—and few getting anywhere. Two graybeards in a pony cart. Watch yourselves, boys.

Men's straw hats with green rims. Pip! Pip! A mail carrier reading a post card. The old book-worm! Wonder who will be our next president. A boy curled up on a bench asleep. A mongrel pup by his side. Vampish young errand girls.

Trucks and drays. Bales and boxes. Costless shipping clerks. They appear to be always happy. Shouting parashooters and old kipling women. Brown stone boarding houses. The only places where people sit on the steps in the evening.

Art schools! Drama schools. Designing schools. Filled with cross-road pupils who left with Main Street's ringing accolade: "Our loss is New York's gain!" And what a pitiful few will achieve their hopes.

A new blast against ticket speculation. Attached to canopies of the streets are batteries of huge megaphones which blast their stentorian warnings: "Tickets bought from speculators will be refused at the door! But at the box office!" It sounds nice—but nevertheless, the speculators continue to hold the best seats and charge triple prices.

The success of Ignace Jan Paderewski's recital at Carnegie Hall recently upset all previous records. At his third recital the receipts amounted to $10,000. It might have been $1,000 more if the pianist had consented to have auditors on the stage with him. He said he could not play with people so near. Paderewski's receipts for the season amounted to more than $500,000.

The New York public is going to weed out the ramshead taxis that flood the town. An organization known as the Better Taxi League has been formed. Membership is free and all that is asked of members is to refrain from hiring conveyances that are dilapidated and unclean. Without patronage, of course, they will go out of business. Visitors to the city are to be asked to patronize only first-class cabs.

There is a widow who supports a family of four by selling books of etiquette in office buildings. She says when people are rude upon entering their office, they usually become ashamed when she tells them she is selling etiquette books and as a result they do not hesitate to buy. QUIETLY GONE
(New York Times.)

Quietly gone, as leaves on a windless day.
Drop without sound; as mist goes up from the sea;

As the slow white moon, in her ancient, beautiful way,
Quietly rises, and passes quietly.

Music is done when the lark flies over the hill,
Motion and grace when, the swallow folds her wings;
Silence alone endures till one takes his fill;
And death is the lasting beauty of lovely things.

History Repeating Itself

Hart—"You little thought a week ago that you would be sitting here in the park tonight with a man you didn't know then."

She—"Oh, yes; I did."

Hart—"Why, dearie; how could you have known that?"

She—"Well, we have had road builders around here before."—The Earth Mover.

From a London Paper

Man who has been celebrating the reduction of the price of beer asks the reception clerk at the hotel for a room.

"Sorry, sir, but we are full."

"Well, I'm full, but I'm not sorry."

Abie Knows

"And now, children, can any one of you tell me what is a stole?"

Only one hand went up.

"Does only Abie Glutz know what a stole is?"

Silence.

"Well, Abie, tell your classmates what is a stole?"

"Please, teacher," said Abie, triumphantly, "A stole is a hold what brings in the babies."—Pharmaceutical Advance.

Strike Three—Batter Out!

An irate fan, who had watched the home team go down to defeat, stopped the umpire as he was leaving the park.

"Where's your dog?" he demanded.

"Dad?" "I have no dog."

"Well, you're the first blind man I ever saw who didn't have a dog."

No Help There

"Can I be of any assistance?" asked the sympathetic motorist of a man who was looking unutterable thought at a disabled car.

"How is your vocabulary?"

"I'm a minister, sir."

"Drive on."

Wrong End Down

"Help, help, quick!"

"That's wrong!"

"Tong, he stuck in da mud."

"How far in?"

"Up to da knees."

"Aw, let him walk out."

"No, no. He no can walk; he wrong end up."

Ever Think of This?

Why sulk and snivel over your lot?

Why weakly sigh and fret?

The war brought a large number of military phrases into civilian usage, as everybody knows.

In a newspaper office recently the bright young reporter who had submitted a big bundle of copy to a description of some trivial incident.

"I don't understand."

BERTON BRALEY'S DAILY POEM

THE GIMMES

By Berton Braley

"GIMME, gimme, gimme!"

Hear the Gimmes as they shout,

"Gimme, gimme, gimme!"

With their fingers stretching out;

It's a universal passion

With the great and with the small,

For the Gimmes are in fashion

And you hear 'em loudly call:

"Gimme, gimme, gimme!"

Or I'll get it with a gimmy!

I am looking for a roll without delay;

Have I earned it? I should worry,

Can't you see I'm in a hurry?

Gimme, gimme, gimme, right away!"

"GIMME, gimme, gimme!"

Every nation does it, too.

"Gimme, gimme, gimme!"

Or I'll grab it off of you!"

Though it means a heap of sorrow

And of war and hate as well,

Which may wreck the world tomorrow,

Still you hear the nations yell:

"Gimme, gimme, gimme!"

Or my enemies will trim me,

Gimme! for I'm desperate today!

And the future? Fear my laughter!

I should fret about hereafter!

Gimme, gimme, gimme, right away!"

THOUGH the future rather dim is,

THIS is plainer than your nose,

We have got to cure the Gimmes

If we hope to cure our woes!

For the highest good in living,

Isn't getting things, but giving,

So I think it's wholly obvious to state

That in seeking for salvation

Of our human population,

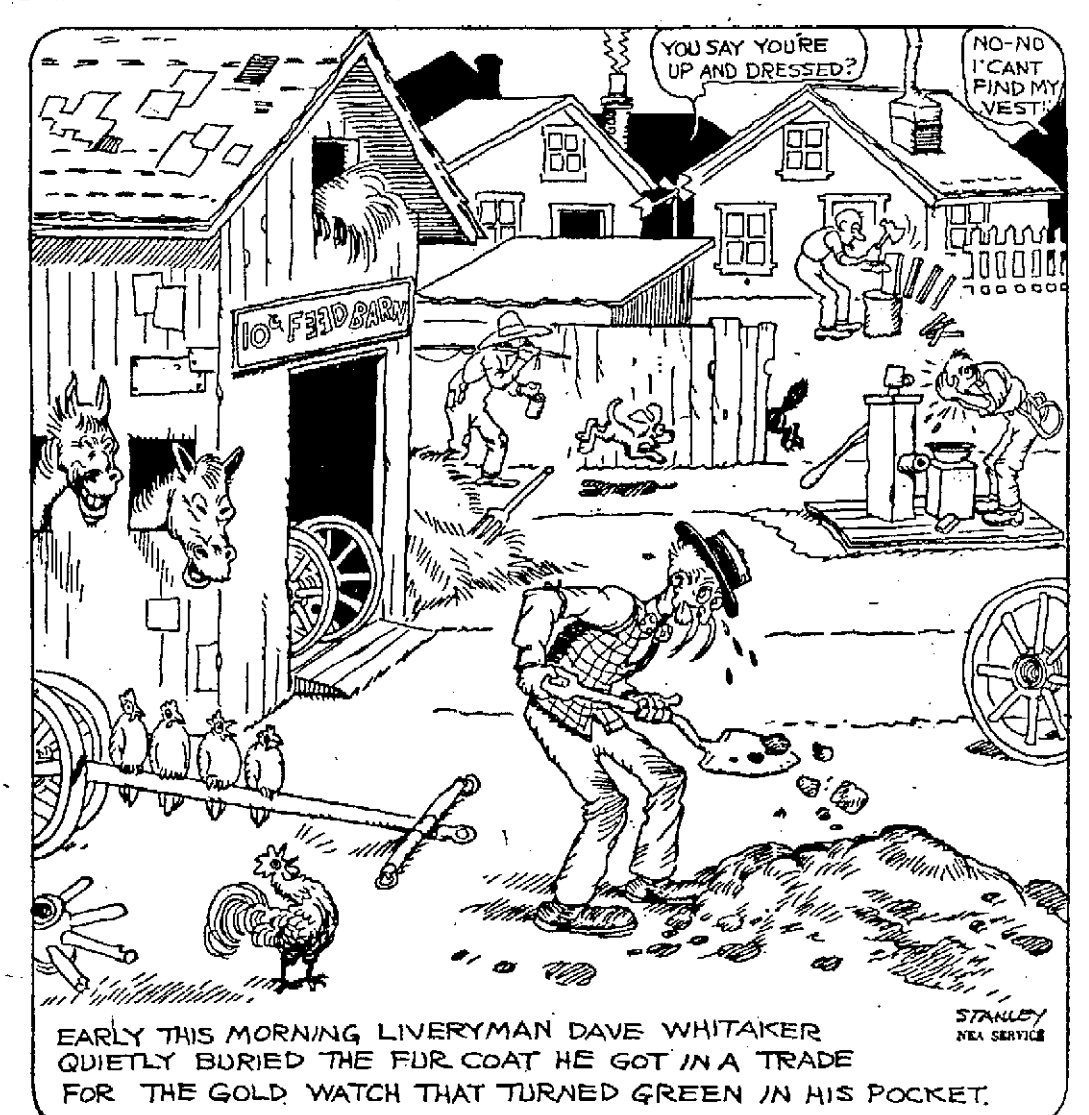

We have got to give the "Gimme

Boys" the gale!
